EXHIBITION - ORIGINAL PAINTINGS AND LITHOGRAPHS

Henry Miller painted as passionately as he wrote. He produced more than 2,000 watercolors which have not been seen in France since 1967, but are sought after in the USA and Japan.

His controversial and erotic writing shook the puritanical America of the 1950's, highlighting moral hypocrisy, whereas the joyfulness of his paintings reveal his optimism and his tenderness for mankind.

This great storyteller of sexuality and eroticism believed "the devil writes but the Angel paints."

His painting reveals another facet of his personality: a world of imagination and fantasy, a joy of life and humor.

Françoise Py wrote in "The smile at the end of the ladder": "For Miller, painting is to be born, to live the innocence of a child who discovers the world. [...]"

Henry Miller, Howaldon Sverende

"TO PAINT IS TO LOVE AGAIN, AND TO LOVE IS TO LIVE LIFE TO THE FULLEST." HENRY MILLER
